Mark was diagnosed with FASD.
His parents shared the frustration.
"He was holding us hostage through his behavior." Professionals just kept saying "Be consistent and, if you love him enough, he'll come around." Unfortunately, that just set them up for failure. Through a better understanding of FASD, and practicing parenting strategies specific to a child with FASD, life looks different for this family today. They learned that "Mark didn't change, we did."
